AN ALL-NIGHT SESSION ON THE IRISH CONSTABULARY BILL,

The Home Rulers Preventing a Vote-De-monding a Fledge that the Constabulary Should Not be Used to Enforce Evictions. LONDON, Aug. 27 .- The debate in the House of Commons which began last night continued until I o'clock this afternoon. The estimates For the Irish constabulary were under consideration, and were strenuously opposed by the Parnellite party. The object of the opposition was to wring from the Government a promise that the constabulary should not be used to sarry out the eviction of the tenantry. The tatement of Mr. Forster, the Chief Secretary or Ireland, in the House the other night, was egarded by the Irish members as an assurance nat the Government would not employ the semiilitary Irish police force in enforcing the land aws, but, under cross-examination of the Conservative opposition, Mr. Forster declared that he law should be enforced. This was regarded by the Irish party as a breach of faith, and they announced their intentions to oppose the voting the estimates until the Government gave a ore satisfactory answer.

Lord Hartington repeatedly urged the Irish members to proceed to the consideration of the vote of supply, assuring them that they much mistock if they thought to wring pledges from withstanding this appeal, the discussion was cept up by Mr. E. Dwyer Gray, member for County Carlow, and others. The motion to report progress was negatived by a vote of 142 to Then The O'Donoghue, member for Tra-moved an adjournment, which was nega-

29. Then The O'Donoghue, member for Tralee, moved an adjournment, which was negalived.

Mr. Bright made an able speech, recalling the many reforms granted to Ireland by the Liberal party, expressing sympathy with Ireland, and a hope that all grievances would be removed by the united action of the English and Urlsh reformers. Mr. O'Connor Power replied that the Irish representatives would not be tempted by any concession to amalgamate with any English party which was not prepared to treatore legislative immepondence to Ireland.

At 4A. M. Mr. Parnell renewed the motion for adjournment. Lord Hartington objected, and said the vote on the Irish constabulary had been down for three nights. The Irish members, instead of proceeding with it, had raised discussions on other matters, Lord Hartington defended the necessity for an armed police force in an ill-tempered speech, which rendered all hope of a compromise impossible, and both rarties began preparations for a proJonged struggle. Lord Rensington, the Liberal whip, arranged the Government reliefs, and Mr. Parnell divided his supporters into two divisions for night and day duty. Mr. Parnell announced his intention to fight the matter out to the last.

At 5A, M. Mr. Alexander Sullivan, member for Louth, was speaking in justification of the procedure of the Irish members. Mr. Sullivan epoke for almost an hour. Mr. Parnell again suggested an adjournment, and absolved himself from all blame for the present state of affairs, which he said was the result of Lord Hartington's headstrong course.

About 9 A, M. Sir Stafford Northcot arrived to help the Government, and an hour later the Irish relief appoared in force. The effect of the fresh faces of Messas. Biggar and Dilion created a marked effect on the Government benches. It became evident that the struggle could be maintained indefinitely unless some severe measures were adopted. This the tomper of the House was evidently not prepared for.

At 12:50 P. M. after the House had been sitting seventeen hour

Some of the speeches were very violent. Mr. Dillon, member for Tipperary, demanded of the Government a piedge to disarm and disband the constabulary. Mr. Bright and Mr. Forster expressed hopes that the constabulary would seen be replaced by civil police. Mr. Bradlaugh supported the Government, and made an attack on the Irish members, who retorted warmly on the member for Northampton and the radical party for want of courage and consistency.

consistency.

The Government has informed Mr. J. P. O'Connor. Home linle member for Gaiway, that the Trensury has decided to grant a loan of £28.000, at four per cent. to improve Galway harbor. Some of the Irish members speak caustically of this as an effort on the part of the Ministry to induce the Home Rulers to sellout for £28,000, and oppose the lean on that ground.

STEERAGE FOLK COMPLAINING.

steamship Victoria of the Anchor line, repre-senting more than one hundred of their fellow ssengers, declared in a formal complaint to the Commissioners of Emigration yesterday that they had been given food they could not eat, and therefore had not been treated "according to contract" on their recent voyage. They presented their story in the form of a paper which had been sworn to, and read as follows:

Dass Sin' Enclosed we beg in hand to you a copy of a letter handed over personals to be attention of the steam, while the control of the Anchor fine. You will see by it that on Acy 17 we made a complaint about the food and treatment, and we desire to say that until this day, taug.

24 no material change has taken place. On the contrary, we are restrictly justified to say that instead of getting better it you worse. The bread given in was often sour. We will not mention the butter at all, as not being specially instead in our contracts. The postatoes were mostly rotten. The perk was as touch as leather, and really not in an estable condition. From Aug. 14 until Aug. 21 we had to go without a proper catable dinner. We had to live on bread, tea, cothe, sup, and water. You will please understand well that we expect them well and properly cooked, as stated in the contract. But everyboly compains that our mod was not prepared as it ought to have been. Things went on this way until last Saturday, years leading the form of the superior cooked, as stated in the contract. But everyboly compains that our mod was not prepared as it ought to have been. Things went on this way until last Saturday, such several Englishment too be the first on a good soon next day, Sanday. But, instead, we got one which side evidently strike. Since of us, being hungry, took as low spoonfuls, but most of its gave it back. There is no doubt on that subject, the meat was had beef. We are thoroughly convinged that the provisions of the steamship Victoria were hot in a proper state. After the Sanday soop was sent back we got a dinner, being fish, beef, and soop, together. We will say this was an eatable dinner. The first one we got on board. The following days we had sign the same uneatable stuff as before.

On Thursday last our tickets were asked for, but a great part of the passengers relowed to give them up

The letter to Capt, Rait that is referred to was written in three languages. The English copy was signed by seventy-five English and German passengers, the French copy by twenty-three passengers, and the Italian copy by eleven Italian passengers. There were 243 passengers in all on the steamship Victoria, man passengers, the French copy by twenty-three passengers, and the Italian copy by eleven Italian passengers. There were 243 passengers in all on the steamship Victoria, and the signers comprised nearly all the male passengers of the steerage. The letter to the Captain specified that there was no table to eat from, and that the passengers were obliged to put their food on their beds; that the water to wash in was not supplied at the appointed time; that the meals were served out to them as if they were a pack of done; that some of the crow threatened to kick the passengers down stairs for singing; and that there was not an catable dinner served from Aug. 14 to Aug. 21. The Commissioners have decided to investigate the complaints to-day, when the lirate passengers and the officers of the steamship will be brought together. At the office of the Anchor line yesterday the officials said that the complaining passengers were of the better class of emigrants, and their modes of life were such that they should have taken passenger for the cabin rather than in the steerage. Specimens of the potatoes said to have been served were shown, both cooked and raw. They were very good potatoes. It was claimed that the complaints about the food were formed by a few malcontents, who led the others to join with them, and that at the investigation to-day it will be shown that the fare and the treatment were quite as good as steerage passengers had a right to expect.

the Winners-Hermit's Fast Time. SARATOGA, Aug. 27.—The speculators were n full force at the race track to-day, and the backers of the favorites again had a field day, as the chosen one in each race was victorious. The first event was taken by Gabriel, not with-out a struggle, however, from General Phillips, who pushed the gray hard at the finish. Hermit, in the five-furlong dash, again scored a victory for Reed's stable, which has been remarkably successful with its two-year olds at this meeting. Hermit's time is the best on record. The veteran Checkmate again gained a good victory over an excellent field. Warfield retaliated for his three defeats by Dan K. of a mile and a furlong by beating him easily in a mile race to-day. The track was in excellent in Brooklyn Yesterday. There is a game called "wicket" which has been in vogue in Connecticut for half a cena form of cricket, inasmuch as the batsman de-fends a wicket which a bowler attacks, and the majority of runs made in a match of two innings on each side decides a contest. But it is not cricket by any means, as the wicket consists of two blocks of wood five feet apart, across which is laid a bail five feet in length. Moreover, the bats are heavy and of great thickness, and differ widely from the cricket bat. The ball, too, is almost twice the size of a cricket ball, and comparatively soft. It is a game for fun too, is almost twice the size of a cricket ball, and comparatively soft. It is a game for fun and exercise only, affording little scope for what is called scientific play. The occasion of yesterday's match, the first wicket match played in Brooklyn for over twenty years, was a reunion of Connecticut players forming the Bristol Wicket Club and the club formed by the employees of the Ansonia Clock Company in South Brooklyn, and known as the Ansonia Wicket Club of Brooklyn. The contest took place on the grounds of the Brooklyn Athletic Club, and lasted from 10 o'clock in the morning until nearly 5 in the afternoon, with but brief intermission between the innings. A supper closed the day. The contesting teams numbered sixty players, thirty on each side.

The Brooklyn team was the first to go to the bat. They were all put out for 71 runs in about an hour and a half. H. Rossiter icading at the bat with 11 runs to his credit, a good average being 5 runs. E. Stocking batted well for 9 and P. Gilleren for 8. These were the three best, scores of the innings. In the fleiding J. H. Ward and D. Conklin led in taking fly balls from the bat, H. Barnes and H. Beckley also making good catches. Stevens and Rohan did the hard work of the bowling, these two taking all the wickets that were bowled. On the Bristol side, in their first innings, they ran up a score of 78, thereby leading their opponents in the first innings by 7 runs, not a very large margin. In their balting S. R. Hart led the score with 10 runs, J. H. Ward's S and Sigourney's 6 being the next best scores. Some fine fleiding was done by P. Green and E. Stocking, both making brilliant catches, while the bowling of Smith and Rossiter was noteworthy. Rossiter taking six wickets and Smith four.

In the second inning the Brooklyn team was finely disposed of for a total of 56, of which Gilleren alone made 16, Butler's 6 and Rossiter's 5 being the next best score. Most of the outs were on catches, in which Messis, Green and Newell bore off the palm. In bowling, Stevens to W

The amount of the deficiency in his accounts was $24,500, but by borrowing money from his friends to be counted as cash on hand on they would have be accounted were examined, and by substituting a bag of Mexican deliars for a bag of Spanish gold pieces, he concealed his deficiency until an examination was unexpectedly ordered. He succeeded in borrowing only $8,500 from his friends, and talted in making the usual salistitution of silver can for gold. When the packages of money were about to be opened he made an excuse to quit the room and did not return. Until then he had been regarded by his apprices as an honest official. The last match between the Washington Nationals and the Brooklyn nine was played vesterday on the Union Grounds in the presence of a large number of spectators. The Na-tionals presented a lively ball, there not being skilful batsmen enough to bat safely against a dead ball, and the result was a hard-hitting game, in which the Nationals took the lead. Nelson again bore off the palm in the field on the Union side, some of his catches being quite in George Wright's style, besides which he led at the bat. Mansell led the batting score on the other side. To-day's game between the Nationals and Rochesters ends the ball playing on the Union Grounds, while the League nines re-turn from the West and Washington, when they will stop in Brooklyn.
